3. The figures shown under District Treasuries represent the minimum balances estimated by the local Account Officers on the usual plan. The minimum for the 1st December 1909 is less by 4 lakhs than what was estimated for 1st December 1908, an increase of 5 lakhs in Bombay due to the guarantee of minimum balances at the branches of the Bank of Bombay opened at Sholapur and Jalgaon being more than covered by a decrease in Bengal due to smaller requirements. The estimated balances of the larger Provinces, viz., the United Provinces, Punjab, Madras and Bombay, have been specially re-examined by the Accountants General at my instance this year. A small reduction in the figures for several months originally proposed has been found possible in Bombay, but the Accountants General, Punjab and Madras report that their Estimates do not admit of reduction and that considerable difficulty is already experienced in working down to these figures. In the United Provinces, the Accountant General has not proposed any reduction in the balances though past experience indicates that it is possible to reduce the actual balances on the 1st of any month much below the estimated minimum. The Accountant General's figures have been retained for the present, but he will be requested to revise the figures carefully when estimating the balances for the next year. The balances for all India have been estimated on the basis of the distributed Budget, the minimum on 1st December being taken at 12,00 lakhs.

4. The following table shows the actual cash balances at the Treasuries on the first day of each month during the past year and their distribution between the Reserve and

District Treasuries and the Presidency Banks, together with the corresponding figures of the preceding year :—

5. The year opened with a balance more than that of the previous year by 3,79 lakhs, but closed with 3,92 lakhs less. This worseness of 7,71 lakhs may generally be attributed to agricultural and trade depressions in the year 1908-09. As a result mainly of these depressions the net Treasury receipts from Railways showed a heavy decline of 3,14 lakhs. High prices of food stuffs involving the grant of compensation to low paid Government servants, the progress of police reorganisation, heavy grants-in-aid to educational institutions in some Provinces, larger expenditure under Courts of Law and on agricultural development, the grant of a bonus of one week's pay to all permanent employees on Rs. 50 a month or under in commemoration of the fiftieth anniversary of the assumption of the Government of India by the Crown and larger drawings of his subsidy by His Majesty the Amir of Afghanistan—all these increased the cost of Civil Administration by the large amount of about 3,04 lakhs. The transactions of District Funds further resulted in a smaller net receipts, into treasuries of 1,44 lakhs, the net receipts from Post Office and Telegraph Departments were less by 99 lakhs in consequence mainly of heavier net withdrawals of Savings Bank deposits, the issues to the Military Department were higher by 70 lakhs and the receipts from the rupee loan of the year were less by 50 lakhs. In addition to these causes which adversely affected the Government balances, the discontinuance of the purchase and coinage of silver in 1908-09 resulted in a net reduction of 8,15 lakhs in the treasury receipts of new coin, as compared with the year 1907-08. But there were gains to counterbalance these losses. In the first place, Council Bill payments were smaller by 4,96 lakhs. Secondly, Civil Revenue was better by 2,88 lakhs, chiefly in consequence of larger land revenue collections in the United Provinces and larger net opium revenue. Thirdly, Loans and Advances showed a net smaller charge of 95 lakhs under takavi loans issued, in the United Provinces and recoveries of loans granted in the previous year. And lastly, the net Public Works issues under Ordinary were less by 1,15 lakhs, chiefly owing to the absence of the issues in the previous year for outlay on Famine relief in the United Provinces.

6. The demand for Council Bills during the first five months of the year was very weak and the Home Treasury was replenished by transfers of £2 million or 3 crores from the Currency chest in London against equivalent payments to the Reserve in India. The proceeds of Bills during the next three months September to November were also insufficient for the requirements of the Home Treasury, and the Secretary of State withdrew a further sum of 31 lakhs (£205,000) from the Currency Reserve and 1,40 lakhs (£933,749) from the Gold Standard Reserve against corresponding credits to these Reserves in India, besides utilising the proceeds of a consignment of £240,240 worth of light weight gold coin and bullion remitted from India. The allotments of Council Bills in the closing months of the year were, however, heavy and admitted of the re-transfer to England of the amount thus utilised from the Gold Standard Reserve in aid of the Secretary of State's balances.

7. The chief feature of the year was the heavy worseness in the treasury transactions with Railways which involved a considerable strain on the treasury balances. The large cash balance with which the year opened, smaller payments of Council Bills and the retention in the treasury balances of the proceeds of sterling bills on London between their realisation and their payment to the Gold Standard Reserve on receipt of advice of payment of the bills from London resulted in the maintenance of easy balances during the months April to August. By the time the demand for Council Bills revived, the effect of the worseness in net Railway receipts had begun to be felt on the Treasury balances and October closed with a balance 1 crore less than the amount (vis., 12 crores) considered as a safe minimum to be held on the 1st December, the period of our lowest balances. It was necessary to obtain a temporary advance of 4½ crores of rupees from the Gold Standard Reserve in aid of the balances during the months of November to February, which was repaid before the close of the year. Even after the advances thus taken, the months of November and December closed with balances which have not been reached in any year since 1900. The pressure on the balances was not allowed to appreciably affect those kept with Presidency Banks.

9. Owing to abnormal trade conditions, rupees and half rupees were returned from circulation during the year to the extent of 14,88 lakhs against 18,00 and 3,92 lakhs issued respectively during the years 1906-07 and 1907-08. There was no coinage from purchased silver during the year and the coinage of these denominations shown in the above table represented entirely the re-coinage of withdrawn coin. The stock of rupees in the Treasuries on the 31st March 1909 was one crore less than on 31st March 1908 and the stock in the Currency Reserve was six crores more. The balance of ten crores that returned from circulation passed to the credit of the Gold Standard Reserve in India against the value of demand drafts on London paid by the Secretary of State out of investments on account of the Reserve.

11. The stock of gold at the beginning of the year in Treasuries and Currency offices amounted to about £2,922,300 inclusive of £25,200 worth of bullion, while that at its end stood at £86,000 consisting entirely of sovereigns and half sovereigns. The amount of imported sovereigns received at the Currency offices during the period was only about £75,000 against over 5 millions received last year, while a sum of £240,240 in light weight gold coins and bullion was remitted to the Home Treasury. The net issues of gold to the public from Currency offices and Treasuries in the twelve months, therefore, amounted to about £2,671,100 of which about one half was issued from Treasuries and the other from Currency. Owing to the absence of imports of gold for trade purposes, the stock of gold held in Currency and Treasuries fell to less than £1 million in September and the issue of gold to the public practically ceased during the latter half of the year.

12. The total net treasury issue of £ 1,359,900 was less than that of the previous year by about £ 1,445,000 and was distributed among the Provinces as shown below:—

Province.	Net receipt.	Net issue.
India . . . . .	.....	43,400
Central Provinces and Berar . . . . .	.....	36,300

TOTAL . . . . .	.....	1,359,900

The demand for gold continued to be high during the year especially in the United Provinces, Punjab, Burma and Madras, and the low issue was due to the insufficiency of the stock in the Currency Reserve.

16. It will be seen from the above table that, in the net result of treasury transactions, the most important variations occurred in India and Bombay. Neglecting the transactions on account of purchase of silver and rupee coinage, India showed an increase of 7,21 lakhs in the net treasury receipts, due chiefly to smaller payments of Council bills (4,71 lakhs), receipts from the sale of sterling bills on London in excess of payments to the Gold Standard Reserve (1,65 lakhs) and larger receipts from the rupee loan of the year (66 lakhs). In Bombay, on the other hand, the local transactions resulted in a deficit of 5,45 lakhs; the issues to Railways were larger by 2,40 lakhs, the receipts from the rupee loan were less by 1,39 lakhs, the Post Office and Telegraph Departments brought in a smaller net receipt of 1,02 lakhs, and there were payments to the Gold Standard Reserve to the extent of

1,88 lakhs on account of sterling bills on London issued at Calcutta and Madras. Against these worsenesses, there was an improvement of 1,18 lakhs in opium revenue owing to the advance payment of duty on Malwa opium intended for export in the years 1909 and 1910. There was a deterioration of 1,96 in Bengal the bulk of which occurred in loan transactions and was due to the grant of larger takavi advances owing to unfavourable agricultural conditions, to a special loan of 50 lakhs granted in Bengal and to the absence of a credit included in 1907-08 on account of repayment of a loan by the Calcutta Port Trust. Larger issues to the Military Department and to Railways, and an increase in Civil expenditure made the treasury transactions in the Punjab worse by over a crore; while, in the United Provinces, better land revenue collections and smaller net issues of takavi loans, due to the recovery of the Province from the famine of the previous year, mainly contributed to the improvement of 2½ crores. The variations in the other provinces were not important.

17. Details of the Interprovincial Remittances shewn in the Table under paragraph 13 are given in Statement C annexed to this report. As compared with the previous year, there was a decrease in the total amount of each kind of remittance except transfers through the Currency Department. The decrease in the movement of specie is attributable partly to the cessation of the demand in connection with famine in the United Provinces in the previous year and partly to the general falling off in the demand for coin owing to adverse trade conditions, the greater part of the remittance of coin that returned from circulation having been dealt with as on behalf of the Currency Department. The bulk of the decrease in the remittance of notes occurred in Eastern Bengal and Assam and Madras and was due in the former province to the transfer of home circle notes to local currency chests on account of the pressure for funds at head-quarters during the latter part of the year instead of their being remitted to the Reserve Treasury, and in the latter to the discontinuance of the practice of remitting Foreign Circle Notes as treasury remittances to the circles concerned. The fall under bills was the result of smaller demands at Calcutta for telegraphic transfers on treasuries in Eastern Bengal and Assam owing to the dullness in trade. The same cause accounts for the smaller transfers through Banks, while the increase under transfers through Currency was due to the pressure for funds during the latter part of the year to meet the drawings of the Secretary of State and local disbursements which necessitated the speedy concentration of district surpluses through the Currency Department. The amounts transferred from Bengal to India through the Bank of Bengal were less than in the previous year in consequence partly of the decrease in Opium revenue, partly of heavy payments of supply bills drawn by mofussil treasuries on the Bank and partly of short receipts on account of telegraphic transfers. The transfers from India to Bengal through the Bank of Bengal amounted to 65 lakhs and related mainly to a special loan transaction in the Bengal Accounts for meeting which aid was given from the India portion of the Government account at the Bank.

18. The following are the principal variations in the remittances by means of supply bills in the two years :—

- (1) The Central Provinces issued bills for 5 lakhs on Calcutta and 27 lakhs on Bombay against a total of 5 lakhs in the previous year, chiefly to replenish the balances of treasuries in want of funds on account of scarcity. No bills were issued at Calcutta during the year on treasuries in the Central Provinces.
- (2) The Foreign bill receipts in Eastern Bengal and Assam were nearly the same as in the previous year, but the payments were higher owing to larger drawings by the Accountant General, Bengal.
- (3) The large falling-off in the receipts in the Punjab is due to smaller issues of bills on Bombay, and Karachi. The receipts of last year were abnormally high owing to heavy demands for bills for remitting funds for which there was no local demand owing to the dullness in trade.
- (4) The smaller payments in Bombay are explained by the falling off in the drawings by the Punjab.

21. The following points in the Resource operations of each province may be specially noticed :—

22. In India, there was a net transfer of 2.88 lakhs from the Bank of Bengal to the Reserve Treasury during the year against one of 6.60 lakhs from the Reserve Treasury to the Bank during the previous year. This variation is due partly to the sale of demand drafts on London, the proceeds of which were paid into the Bank of Bengal and subsequently transferred to the Reserve Treasuries pending eventual payment to the Gold Standard Reserve, and partly to smaller payments of Council Bills. The surplus accumulations at Ajmer and Sambhar amounted to 1.60 lakhs, of which 1.55 lakhs were withdrawn to Calcutta through the Currency Department and 5 lakhs in coin, chiefly whole rupees, were supplied to Indore. No specie remittances were required to be sent to Sambhar during the year, but, on account of a fall in the receipt of Currency Notes in Railway collections, notes had to be supplied to Ajmer, 4 lakhs worth from Calcutta and a smaller quantity from Bombay. The Indore Treasury which is in charge of the Bank of Bombay was supplied with Currency Notes to the value of 36 lakhs from Bombay, 1 lakh from the Punjab and 3 lakhs from the United Provinces in addition to 7 lakhs of coin from Bombay. 64 lakhs were transferred in aid of the Treasury balances from the Currency chests at Quetta and its sub-treasuries against opposite payments at Calcutta, the remittances to the chests amounting to 17 lakhs worth of notes and 23 lakhs in coin from Karachi. The Political treasury at Hyderabad was supplied with help to the extent of 21 lakhs in coin and notes from Bombay, and 13 lakhs were transferred from Calcutta by Bank transfers. Coorg was supplied with 14 lakhs and Nowgong with 6 lakhs from Madras and the United Provinces respectively.

The Resident in Nepal now keeps himself in funds, by advances obtained from the Nepal Durbar, against equivalent payments at par to the Nepal Representative in Calcutta; he obtained about half a lakh during the year under this arrangement.

23. In the Central Provinces and Berar, the amount transferred from Akola and Amraoti to Bombay was 91 lakhs against 140 lakhs in the previous year. Of the former, 25 lakhs represented the surplus of Buldana and Yeotmal treasuries drawn off to Akola and Amraoti by actual remittance amounting to 19 lakhs and by supply bills amounting to 6 lakhs. In addition to these remittances to Akola and Amraoti, 22 lakhs were remitted from these two treasuries to Nagpur and 4 lakhs were transferred to local Currency chests. The local remittances to Jubbulpore to meet treasury requirements amounted to 10 lakhs, and 14 lakhs were in addition drawn by bills on Bombay and Calcutta. Nagpur received remittances of 34 lakhs in specie from non-central treasuries in the Central Provinces.
24. In Burma, the amount of treasury surplus withdrawn to Rangoon showed a net increase of 21 lakhs. There was an increase of 7 lakhs in the remittances from District Treasuries through the Bank of Bengal, Rangoon, the Bank having taken up larger amounts at its branches at Akyab and Moulmein, and the remittances to District Treasuries were less by 14 lakhs owing to the discontinuance of the supply of sovereigns. The aggregate amount of supply bills and telegraphic transfers sold on Bassein at a premium of 2 as per cent was 1,29 lakhs, which was more than that sold in 1907-08 by 5 lakhs. It is stated that, although the increase is small, it represents a large increase of business, as prices ruled over 25 per cent lower than last year. Telegraphic transfers and bills for 9 lakhs only were sold on Henzada at a premium of 1½ as. per cent. against 21 lakhs in the previous year. The decrease is attributed to the general drop in prices and to the rice season having started late during the year under report. On the other hand, transfers on Myingyan showed an increase from 15 to 24 lakhs owing to good rains and a bumper cotton crop. The sale of supply bills and transfers on Rangoon at Mandalay and other treasuries was larger than that of 1907-08 by 52 lakhs.
25. In Eastern Bengal and Assam, there was a decrease in the amount of local specie remittances through treasury owing to larger transfers of surpluses to deficit treasuries through the medium of Currency chests. During the latter part of the year, it was found necessary on account of the pressure for funds at head quarters to transfer surplus Currency Notes to Currency chests, and local demand for notes is now met from the accumulations in the chests instead of by indents on Calcutta as formerly. 85 lakhs in coin were sent from several Currency chests to Dacca to meet the demands of the Bank of Bengal and for other requirements. The Bank took 58 lakhs only against 73 in the preceding year.
26. In Bengal, the specie remittances to the opium paying treasuries of the Behar Agency amounted to 66 lakhs against 52 in the previous year, of which 58 lakhs was given through Currency and the balance of 8 lakhs by an actual remittance. The increase in the supply to the opium treasuries was not however due to larger demands, but to the fact that, owing to heavy pressure for funds at head quarters, all available surpluses were transferred to the Currency chests, thus necessitating re-transfers when funds were required for expenditure. Local remittances to deficit treasuries showed an increase of 14 lakhs on account of larger demand for funds at Cuttack and Nadia owing to the prevalent scarcity. Remittances from Calcutta to District Treasuries also showed a net increase of 42 lakhs; there was an increase in the payments of supply bills at Calcutta and notes were sent to Treasuries in larger quantities to make up for decreased receipts in payment of Government dues.
27. In the United Provinces, the treasury remittances of rupees were specially low in 1907-08 on account of smaller revenue collections, while larger movements of coin in connection with the grant of takavi advances on a large scale caused an increase in the total amount of local currency remittances. These causes having ceased to operate in the year under report, treasury remittances exceeded those of the preceding year by 10 lakhs while Currency remittances fell from 6.98 to 5.64 lakhs. There was an increase of 55 lakhs in the treasury remittances of Foreign Circle notes owing to a change of practice in dealing with these notes by which they were sent to the Remittance Treasury, Cawnpore without being transferred to Currency chests, as formerly. A practice was recently started in this Province to supply notes to bankers and firms through the medium of temporary Currency chests on a certificate that they were required for local circulation. It was, however, objectionable as these chests are opened only for resource purposes and are not intended to be used as the medium for such transactions, and has now been discontinued.
28. In the Punjab, the net amount of aid granted from Calcutta and Bombay amounted to 4.03 lakhs against 2.95 in the previous year. This increase was due to short collections of revenue and larger net departmental issues: the aid required from Calcutta and Bombay would have been greater but for large sales of supply bills on these places as well as on Karachi. There was a decrease of 37 lakhs in the local remittances of Currency Notes owing to smaller transfers between the Bank of Bengal, Lahore and the local Remittance Treasury.
29. In Madras, the net outgoings from the head office of the Bank of Madras rose by 19 lakhs, chiefly in consequence of larger issues to the Postal Department and to Railways. There was a net transfer of 3.20 lakhs during the year to Calcutta and Bombay through Currency against one of 55 lakhs in the opposite direction in the preceding year. The withdrawals of District surpluses to Madras by Bank and Currency transfers rose by 73 and 58 lakhs respectively, while those by means of supply bills decreased by 29. The increase in Bank transfers and the decrease in supply bills were chiefly due to the transfer of the Government Treasury business at Guntur, Masulipatam and Coimbatore to the newly opened branches of the Bank of Madras; the surpluses are now taken by the Bank locally instead of their being withdrawn by bills. The increase in Currency transfers was the result of the pressure for funds at head-quarters during the latter part of the year.

30. In Bombay, the transfers between the Reserve Treasury and the Presidency Bank resulted in a net receipt of 4,00 lakhs by the Reserve Treasury against 1,41 lakhs in 1907-08; the increase was due to receipts on account of demand drafts on London and smaller payments of Council bills, partly counter-balanced by smaller receipts from the rupee loan of the year and a decrease in the net Railway receipts. The supplies from Bombay to District Treasuries were more by 1,02 lakhs, owing partly to a falling off in the net earnings of the North-Western Railway which necessitated larger remittances to Sind Treasuries and partly to larger issues to the Postal Department in treasuries in Bombay proper. The district surpluses withdrawn to head-quarters were likewise less than in the preceding year by 1,60 lakhs on account of the fall in the receipts of the North-Western Railway and the transfer of the Southern Mahratta Railway head-quarters from Dharwar to Madras.

32. The gold remittances were sent to supply local demands, and, as observed in paragraph 11 above, they ceased by the middle of the year owing to the almost complete exhaustion of the stock of gold in the Currency Reserve. No large remittances of silver coin were necessary during the year to meet any trade demand and the remittances shown in the above table, with the exception of 24 lakhs sent from Ajmer to Delhi during the latter part of the year to meet the demands of the Bank of Bengal, and 1 crore from Bombay to Rangoon in view of the demands in the rice season, were undertaken solely on account of difficulties experienced in accommodating locally the surplus accumulations due to the large return of coin from circulation.

Small silver, nickel, copper and bronze.

33. Statement D, annexed to this report shows the absorption of these coins in the different provinces during the twelve months under review and in the two preceding years. Leaving out of consideration the smaller denominations of bronze coins, vis., half pice and pie pieces, the demand for which is fairly constant from year to year, it will be seen that every denomination of small coin with the exception of the anna nickel piece has shown a return from circulation during the year 1908-09. This is due partly to the abnormal depression of trade that prevailed throughout the country and partly to the return by the public of part of the heavy issues of small coin in the United Provinces during the year 1907-08 and the earlier months of 1908-09 in connection with outlay on Famine Relief. Quarter and eighth rupees, anna pieces and single pice taken together show a net receipt of 8½ lakhs worth into Government Treasuries in India as a whole; Calcutta and the India treasuries show the largest net receipt, vis., 19½ lakhs, while the treasuries in the United Provinces received no less than 14 lakhs more than they issued to the public. Burma, Eastern Bengal and Assam and Bengal are the only Provinces in which any appreciable issue of small coin occurred, chiefly in connection with the rice, tea and jute industries and famine expenditure in Bengal.

34. Nickel coins to the value of 11 lakhs were issued during the year against 15 lakhs worth issued during the eight months August 1907 to March 1908. The coin continues to be popular, specially in Bombay and Bengal. The United Provinces and Burma are the only two Provinces in which there were net receipts into the treasuries; in the former, they were due to the return of famine issues while, in the latter, the coin is reported not to be favourably looked upon by the Burmese. In the earlier part of the year, the circulation of nickels in Burma appears to have suffered in consequence of a false rumour that they would be withdrawn from circulation and of the appearance of counterfeits. The rumour was immediately contradicted by Government, but with no appreciable effect on the circulation. The desirability of taking special measures in connection with the appearance of counterfeits is under consideration.

35. If the year under report had been normal, it would have been possible to estimate roughly the effect of the introduction of nickel coins on the demand for eighth rupees and single pice. No such estimate can be made at present owing to the impossibility of determining the precise causes of the net receipt of the latter denominations from the public. In view, however, of the general demand that existed for the nickel coin when there was none for every other denomination and of the fact that the total return of one-eighth rupees and single pice in the United Provinces is in excess of the issues for famine disbursements, it seems very likely that the nickel is gradually displacing single pice and probably also two anna pieces.

36. The copper double pice has never been popular owing partly to its inconvenient size, and there were indications that even the small demand that existed for it in Western and Southern India was falling off after the introduction of the anna-piece. It was accordingly decided, during the year under report, to gradually withdraw from circulation accumulations in Treasuries for which no demand was anticipated. Coin to the value of 2½ lakhs were thus remitted to the Mints during the year. The transactions with the public resulted in a net receipt of 1 lakh worth as in the previous year.

38. The withdrawal of 1840 rupees was practically the same as in the previous year. The total withdrawal of these coins to end of March 1909 amounted to about 25.73 lakhs and that of 1835 coins to about 3.22 lakhs. The receipts of shroff-marked coins continue to be insignificant ; but there was an increase of 19 lakhs in the amount of defective and light-weight coins withdrawn from circulation. This increase and the absence of a reduction in the amount of 1840 coins withdrawn are mainly attributable to the greater quantity of rupees that were handled by our Treasuries and Currency Offices during the year.

RESOLUTION—By the Government of India, Home Department.

The Rules issued under the Indian Arms Act, 1878, were originally published with the Home Department Notification no. 518, dated the 6th March 1879. As the result of successive amendments and additions during the past thirty years, these rules have become most intricate and confusing, and it is believed that in their present form they cause inconvenience to the officers who have to administer them as well as to the public, especially to those who are connected with the trade in arms and ammunition. The Governor General in Council has therefore caused them to be codified in a clearer form. The revised rules have been circulated to local Governments and Administrations for their opinions; and a large number of minor amendments suggested by them have been adopted. The rules as finally approved by the Governor General in Council are now published for general information, in supersession of those hitherto in force. The changes which have been made in the rules are, for the most part, only such as are necessary in order to make them clear or in consequence of administrative changes, such as the formation of the North-West Frontier Province, the creation of new districts in the Punjab and the formation of the province of Eastern Bengal and Assam.

ORDER.—Ordered that the above Resolution and the rules be published in the Gazette of India for general information.
